Biography and Social Media

January 2023

Kai Foster, born in Nashville, TN, started playing bass guitar at age thirteen. Once he started, he was hooked, and has been taking weekly lessons with Cedarstone Music School in Hendersonville, TN ever since. Early on he participated in their Performance Band Program, and is currently playing in the audition only group, Amplify.

Kai loves hard rock, metal and classic rock music but is really at home playing the blues.

After meeting Matt Skoda, the drummer for SKODA and who also attended Cedarstone, Kai was invited to join the band after departure of the former bass player.

Formed in January 2017, they have performed at various venues in Spring Hill, Columbia, Franklin, Brentwood, Nolensville and Nashville. While Kai briefly left the band, he has returned to help SKODA achieve their goals of “making it” in the music business. Kai has worked hard to improve his playing and craft his own unique bass sound while locking in with the drummer of SKODA, Matt

Skoda.

Today, Kai plays bass guitar with Matt Skoda and their new band, The Cordell Winter Band and is performing regularly with the band across Nashville and the region.

When Kai is not playing music, he enjoys typical teenager activities such as hanging with his older brother, traveling with his family, playing football and baseball, and playing video games. But music is his first love and passion, and he plans to continue his development for years to come.
